FOOD PAIRINGS

“My favorite accompaniment to Pinot Noir is roasted duck breast (cooked medium-rare) and served with French lentils. It works well with a classic Toulouse-style French cassoulet with a whole duck leg confit cooked in its own bowl with cannellini beans, pork shoulder and topped with bread crumbs prior to 2 hours in the oven. On the lighter side, it's nice with seared tuna, sushi nigiri (especially Unagi) and pairs well with Impossible Burgers. But the best way to enjoy a fine Pinot Noir is on a Friday night with good friends and lots of laughter.” — Richard Bruno.
