

Our family's Douro estate was given as a christening present for my grandmother, Claire Fueheerd in 1906. In 1988, my late father Tim Bergqvist and I decided to restart the family business and launched Quinta de la Rosa as a top quality port producer. Today, I run Quinta de La Rosa while ably assisted by my brother Phillip. Under the direction of our Winemaker Jorge Moreira, our goal is to focus on each of our Grade-A vineyards, making improvements and investments enabling us to discover the true expression that marks La Rosa's style today.

Still Wines Quinta de la Rosa's estate-grown still wines have won many accolades in the press and are sold in prestigious restaurants and wine stores around the world. The wines are rich and full-bodied while main-lining freshness and good acidity.

Legacy & Future Vintages

DouRosa Red 2019

"Friendly crushed raspberry and boysenberry notes cruise through in this polished, accessible red, featuring flashes of anise and sweet toast on the finish. Touriga Nacional, Touriga Franca, Tinta Barroca and Tinta Roriz. Drink now."

La Rosa Estate Red 2019

"This young, structured wine from a family-owned estate has good balance between its acidity and the black-currant fruits. They are supported by young tannins that will soften as the wine matures. Drink from 2023."

91pts Wine Enthusiast 12/21

"Ripe but fresh, with an enticing beam of cassia, plum paste and boysenberry preserve flavors gliding along. Polished in feel, while picking up light anise, toasted vanilla and violet notes, with a toasty hint lingering on the finish. Crowd pleaser. Touriga Nacional, Tinta Roriz and Touriga Franca. Drink now through 2024."

La Rosa Reserva Red 2017

"Fresh and possessed of vivid flavors, this also has big power and fine concentration without ever becoming jammy. A beautifully balanced and lively red, this does everything well and has not a hair out of place. There have been denser and more powerful Reservas from La Rosa but few as enlivening as this one."

Port Wines The Quinta de La Rosa port 'house' style is to make well defined, elegant ports without over-extraction and without too much tannin or oak.

White Port Extra Dry NV

A beautiful amber-honey color, it shows excellent fruit on the palate, tropical fruits - especially pineapple - but at the same time has a long dry finish, typical of the house style you find at La Rosa.

"Surprisingly fresh for its age, it is spicy, long on the finish and still complex, this is a wonderful 30 that touches all the bases, then slides into home to score. It does nothing wrong and everything well. It's brilliant."

95pts Wine Advocate 07/19

"Friendly plum and cherry cobbler notes form the core of this forward and slightly rustic tawny, with singed alder, licorice root, buckwheat and hazelnut notes emerging through the finish. Gains nuance, with a green tea hint emerging at the end. The rusticity is pleasant, balanced by ample fruit. Decidedly dry in feel for the style."

92pts Wine Spectator 09/19

"Celebrating in 2018 the 30th anniversary of the launch of Ports at Quinta de la Rosa by Tim Bergqvist and his daughter Sophia, this is a fine wine. It's in a light style with plenty of freshness, even now, as well as caramel, toffee and spicy wood flavors. Like all aged tawnies, the wine is ready to drink."

Late Bottled Vintage 2016/17

"This rich Port is ready to drink, but it also has aging potential. The dry style of this structured wine with both acidity and dense sweetness is balanced and full of black fruits. Drink this wine now through 2027."

Vintage Port 2016

"This is a finely perfumed wine with swathes of ripe berry fruits and a generous texture. A dry style of vintage, it emphasizes spice, the bite of the spirit as well as the opulent black-plum and raisin fruit flavors. There is great potential in this fine wine. Drink from 2027."

95pts, "Cellar Selection" Wine Enthusiast 12/18

"Rather nicely concentrated in terms of fruit flavor, this beautifully balanced Porto also has moderately ripe tannins, velvet for texture and a persistent finish. It coats the palate and delivers intense flavor on that finish, while the fruit is always lifted. Then, the tannins take over as the fruit recedes. Several days later, it was still drinking beautifully and it was surprisingly persistent, concluding with controlled tannic pop. The tannins may be ripe, but there are plenty of them. It took several days to open up again and become expressive again. There's plenty here to like, beginning with its enticing freshness and ending with the fact that it is delicious. Drink 2026-2065."

Vintage 2017 "Very floral in profile, with violet and lilac accents leading off, followed by a decidedly red-fruit spectrum of raspberry, cherry and red currant coulis flavors that race throughout. Has grip, but this is more reliant on acidity, showing a nearly piercing feel as the tightly focused finish zips along, leaving a mouthwatering impression. Best from 2033 through 2050."

95pts Wine Spectator 12/19

"Wonderfully aromatic and filled with flavor, this got plenty of aeration and didn't blink even a little. It was still vibrant and expressive. Aeration only made it more tannic. It is also delicious. This is potentially a great Port, and it seems like the best I've seen from La Rosa. This is sort of approachable in the near future, but it really needs (at least) a decade of cellaring. It has a lot of muscle and should age well."

95pts Wine Advocate 07/19

"This is a rounded Port, showing layers of black fruits, ripe tannins and spice. At the same time, it does have a solid structure that will allow it to age. The acidity comes through at the end. Drink from 2028."

95pts Wine Enthusiast 12/19

Vintage 2018 "Wow. This is the real deal. Lots of tannic grip and power with transparent blue fruit and wet earth. Full-bodied and medium-sweet with excellent depth and length. One for the cellar. Best ever vintage Port from here? Try after 2025."

96pts James Suckling 03/18

"Racy and vibrant Port in the making here, with mouthwatering bramble and anise notes running along the edges of a lively mix of cassis, raspberry ganache and blackberry and fig paste notes. Lots of energy drives the finish, which is marked with a bold licorice snap note. Best from 2030 through 2050."
