

After lengthy research in several regions of Chile, Bordeaux Wine Grower François Lurton planted his vineyard on virgin terroir, with poor soil and a healthy, balanced climate: the Lolol Valley. The choice of the Lolol Valley proved to be judicious, thanks to the weather conditions and the granite schist terroir. This touched subregion of the famous Colchagua Valley was perfect for implementing biodynamic winemaking methods and making remarkable wine.

"A youngster, with a vibrant, fruit-filled presence of plumeria and blood orange notes, picking up crisp raspberry and Rainier cherry flavors. Shows lively acidity that drives everything to the finish around fine, spice-filled tannins. While not the typical bold Cabernet Sauvignon, this makes for a very drinkable style. Drink now."

Hacienda Araucano Alka Carmenere 2022

"A spicy, complex carmenere showing a brooding depth of dark cherries, blackberries, grilled stemmy herbs, cigar leaves and spices. Full-bodied, concentrated and extremely flavorful yet still fresh, with a deep set of dark fruit, Mexican chocolate and spices. Really long and mealy finish that lasts almost a minute. From organically grown grapes. Drink or hold."

96pts, "#50 Top 100 Wines of Chile" James Suckling 07/24

"A blend of 90% Carmenère and 10% Cabernet Sauvignon, the 2022 Alka is certainly a plush, heady expression of the variety, yet it is rendered with admirable balance and attention to detail. A lush, powerful bouquet of ripe black fruits, incense, cardamom and bittersweet dark chocolate defines the nose, introducing a fittingly voluptuous, enveloping mouthfeel with considerable density and richness. These qualities continue through a massively impactful finish that lingers long with intense saturation and toasty accents of new wood Drink date: 2026 - 2032."
